

A NEW ROMANY BOOK – THE FIRST IN OVER FIFTY YEARS!

Romany has to move his gypsy caravan when a flash flood threatens his safety. At its new location, he meets George, the farmer's son, who soon becomes his friend.

Experience a range of emotions as Romany introduces George to the wonders of nature; laughter as they attempt to photograph young barn owls on the nest; concern as George falls from the cliff edge; tears when George thinks that Meg, his favourite Border collie pup, is gone forever.

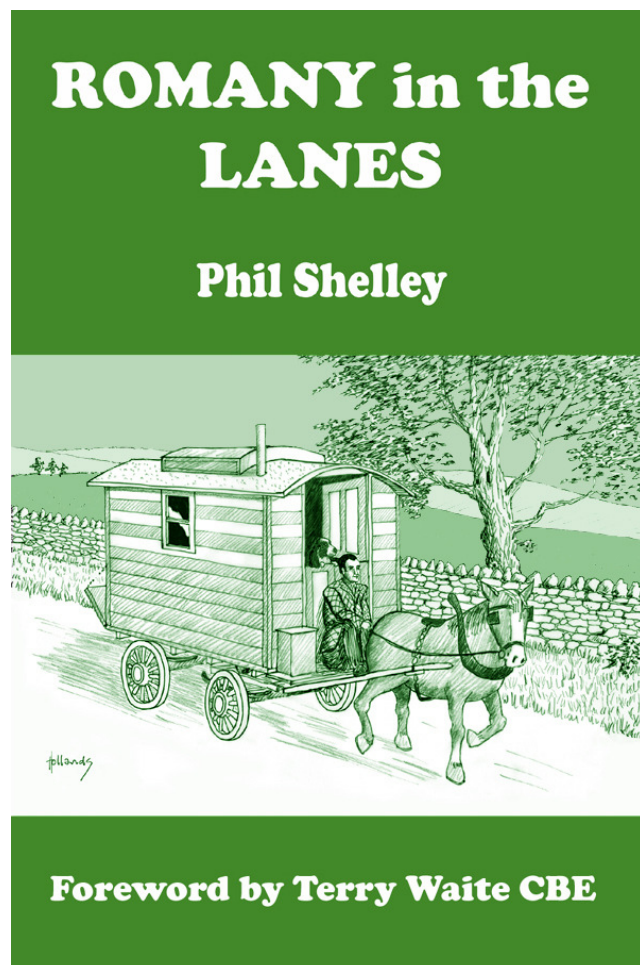

Phil Shelley, the author, and Ray Leonard Hollands, a talented illustrator, have jointly captured the spirit of Romany in this lively story, which appeals to older children and adults alike.

Terry Waite, CBE, in his foreword, says: 'I hope that many will not only read it but will be encouraged to take a greater interest in the preservation and development of the natural world.'

The Reverend George Bramwell Evens (1884-1943), born of a gypsy mother, became widely known as Romany – or Romany of the BBC – when his great talent for imparting knowledge of wildlife came to a wide audience through his books and weekly broadcasts, Out with Romany.
